Update

Investor and analyst call
September 26, 2022

Tomas Carlsson, CEO
Susanne Lithander, CFO
Today’s earnings update

- Asphalt business: Very strong headwind due to cost increases and lower volumes – BA Industry expected to report a zero EBIT for 2022

- Contracting units: Margin pressure due to inflation - mostly well managed

- Building Sweden: Unrelated write-down of SEK 120 M in a few residential projects

- Profit recognition of land sales in Property Development moved to Q4 or Q1

- Expecting good cashflow – share buy-back program to continue
Business area Industry - Asphalt

- Heavy price increases has not fully offset surge in energy cost
- Contracts leveraged to maximum potential
- Sweden less impacted by cost increases due to more asphalt plants running on biofuel
- Volumes impacted since July – most pronounced in Denmark and Norway
- Additional pension payment needed

Earnings in the business area expected to be around zero for the full year, with the largest impact in Q3
Business area Building Sweden

• Q3 earnings impacted by write-down of 120 MSEK related to a few residential projects in the Stockholm area
• Unrelated to cost increases

• Margin pressure as in Q2 in all contracting units but generally well managed
Business area
